

The Performance Review Institute

A special message to employers from Mike Hayward, Vice President and Chief Operating Officer

I am writing to share important information with you about the Nadcap meetings because one of your employees has shown an interest in attending. As an employer, I understand the critical importance of balancing staff productivity and time away from the office, but I also know the value of participating in a Nadcap meeting.

Here are four good reasons why Nadcap meetings are so important...

1. Nadcap Management Council and Supplier Support Committee Meetings

At these sessions, Primes and Suppliers work together on initiatives that contribute to continual improvement throughout the industry such as standardization, contract flow down and risk mitigation.

2. Special Process Task Group Meetings

By attending, you can participate in discussions about new Nadcap audit checklists and existing audit checklist revisions as well as gain insights into common non-conformances.

3. Free Training

Attendees can benefit from free eQuaLearn training on topics such as Root Cause Corrective Action or Nadcap Audit Preparation.

4. Networking Opportunities

With between 500 - 1000 delegates at each Nadcap meeting, these events represent a great opportunity to spend time with existing and potential customers and suppliers and strengthen industry relationships.

Supporting Nadcap meeting participation will give your company an opportunity to achieve competitive advantage through active involvement in industry-wide decision making.

For more information about Nadcap and the upcoming meetings, please visit our website www.p-r-i.org/Nadcap/ or call us on one of the numbers below.

I hope to see you and/or one of your colleagues at a Nadcap meeting soon – please make sure to introduce yourself!

Kind Regards,

Mike Hayward
